OHIO DOMESTIC VIOLENCE NETWORK

Recognizing Domestic Violence

- Violence may impact a child's development and a parent's ability to care for that child
- Without intervention, domestic violence usually increases in frequency and severity

SOME SIGNS TO LOOK FOR

Parent displays:

- Unexplained injuries, especially during pregnancy
- Physical symptoms related to stress (trouble sleeping, fatigue, frequent headaches, stomachaches)
- Abuse of alcohol or drugs
- Lack of interest in things, appears detached
- Fear of partner or reluctance to speak in front of partner
- Isolation or lack of support system

Child displays:

- Fear of father (who is usually the abuser) or other adults
- Fear of leaving the mother (who is usually the victim)
- Eating or sleeping problems
- Nervousness, jumpiness, or frequent crying
- Violent behavior, acting out or appearing withdrawn

Helpful things to say to a victim of domestic violence:

- "You're doing a great job dealing with this situation."

- “No one deserves to be treated this way.”
- “I’m afraid for your safety.” Or “I’m afraid for the safety of your children”
- “Abuse usually gets worse not better.”
- “You deserve to make your life safe and happy.”
- “I believe you.”
- “You are not alone. You can ask for help.”

Help the victim access support

- Have you talked to anyone else about your situation?
- If there anyone that could help you if you needed it?
- Have you considered calling you local Domestic Violence program?

Provide information about the local domestic violence program:

If you would like further information about resources available in your area to victims of domestic violence, contact Ohio Domestic Violence Network (ODVN) at 1-800-934-9840.

(the above information was provided by the ODVN)

Prescription Assistance

Do you, or does someone you know, need help affording prescription drugs? Did you know that the pharmaceutical industry provides prescription drugs to people who qualify for assistance? There are also government programs to help people afford prescription drugs. Click here to learn more about these programs.

Do you know someone that might benefit from being able to search for prescription assistance programs online, but they don't have a computer? Click here to see how to find publicly available internet-capable computers in your community.

About Patient Assistance Programs

What are Patient Assistance Programs?

The research-based pharmaceutical industry has a long tradition of providing prescription medicines free of charge to patients who might not otherwise have access to necessary medicines. Generally, a Patient Assistance Program provides prescription medicines to patients who do not have prescription drug coverage or who are underinsured through either private and/or government health plans.

For many years, the innovator pharmaceutical companies, that research and develop new drugs, have been concerned that patients did not have access to the newest and most effective medicines available. Since as early as the 1950s and 1960s, pharmaceutical companies have worked with doctors to identify patients in need who would benefit most from these programs.

Patient Assistance Programs are the Pharmaceutical Industry's best-kept secret. Many PAPs have been organized in the past ten years. However, two date back to the 1950s, one was formed in the 60's, two were formed in the 70's, and two started in the 80's. Many drugs have been supported by Patient Assistance Programs for some time. To make it easier for patients and physicians to find information about company-sponsored programs, PhRMA, the Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America, put together a directory of programs in 1992 to

Who We Are

RxForOhio.org is a service brought to you by a collaboration of concerned individuals and organizations joining America's pharmaceutical companies to improve health care access for the citizens of Ohio.
